A DUKE'S AMBITION.

How Ernest of Cumberland Wanted the English Throne.

At the time of George IV.'s death my father was with the duke, who then for the first time said how he longed to be king, adding that he was much more fit to be king than his brother, the Duke of Clarence, who might be a good sailor, but was kingly neither in looks nor manners. On one occasion when the duke was to have an interview with the king my father went with him to Windsor, where they remained for the night. The royal brothers dined alone together. Queen Adelaide was ill and did not appear, and my father dined with the suit in an adjoining room. During dinner loud voices were heard, which soon became more vehement. Both brothers had drunk more than usual, and the duke lost his temper and his head. Then for the first time King William suspected the idea which from that time was never out of Duke Ernest's mind, that he ought to be the next king of England should no male children survive his brother, William IV.

The duke, rising, said: "Call in the suit. I am proposing a toast: 'The king's health! God save the king!'" The suit came in and drank it. Then the duke said, "May I also, sir, propose the next toast?" "Name it, your grace," replied the King. "The king's heir," proudly said the duke, and "God bless him!"

A dead silence followed; then the king, collecting all his energies and wits, stood up and called out: "The king's heir! God bless her!" Then, throwing the glass over his shoulder, he turned to his brother and exclaimed, "My crown came with a lass, and my crown will go to a lass."

Every one noticed that the duke did not drink the toast. He left the room abruptly, scarcely bowing to his brother, the king.—"Tales of My Father," by A. M. F.

Cold Comfort.

The butler in a Scotch family occupies a privileged and unique position. He sometimes assumes a freedom of speech which seems to American ears to border on impertinence; but to those who know him his frank speech is only one of the many evidences of his interest in the family welfare.

A young American woman was the guest at a house where a butler of that sort reigns. She submitted to his patronage with much amusement; but one day there were unexpected and important guests for dinner, and a little while before the meal was served the butler waylaid the young American in the hall.

"I'm fearin' there'll no be quite enough soup," he whispered, "so when it's offered ye maun decline it, lass."

"Decline soup, James?" she said, laughing. "Why, that would not be polite."

"Weel, not precisely," said James, with a benignant smile, "but they'll a' make excuse for ye, thinkin' ye ken nae better."

A Choice.

"Life," we gravely say to the sorrowing friend—"life, we should remember, is full of grievous disappointments, and, though, as you say, you feel that you have made mistakes, you should not repine, for no doubt in making one mistake you have escaped another equally great, if not more so."

We could talk thus for several hours about the mistakes of others, but he interrupts.

"It may be just as you say," he observes, "but once I had a chance to buy a gold brick and instead used the money to get married on."

Weeping because he would never know the thrilling sensation of being gold bricked, we pass hurriedly on.—Judge.

Sandy's Explanation.

A braw son of Scotia accepted an invitation to spend a fortnight with a friend in London, whose quarters were in the dense purlieus of Clerkenwell. On joining his host at breakfast the morning after his arrival the following colloquy took place, much to the annoyance of the mistress of the house:

Host—Well, Sandy, old man, how did you sleep?

Sandy—Aweel, mon, to say the truth, na so vara weel.

Host—I am sorry to—

Sandy (interrupting)—Ah, dinna fash yesself, mon. I was better aff than the fleas, for they never closed a blessed e'e the whole night.

The Water Spider's Air Bubble.

The water spider, which spends most of its time under water, carries a bubble of air for breathing on the underside of its body, and when this air is exhausted it comes to the surface for more. It is enabled to carry the air bubble because the underside of its body is covered with tiny hairs set so close together that the surface film of the water does not pass them, although the air does, and thus the air is imprisoned among the hairs.

PHILOSOPHY OF LAUGHING.

Optimism a Supreme Sedative—Worry Is Bad for the Health.

Again a word about the philosophy of laughter. When the system is nerved and is making conscious or unconscious effort, the nerves that tighten the walls of the blood vessels are hard at work, and pressure in the arteries is great; but a hearty laugh, as Brucke's interesting experiments show, tends to bring the blood over into the veins where there is no pressure, relieves the arteries and brings the exquisite sensations of relaxation of rest. This is favored even by the attitude of a hearty laugh. To draw in a full breath, throw back the head, open the mouth and let the expiration "gurgle forth with sonorous intermittence," to quote a phrase from the "Philosophy of Laughter," and to do it again and again slowly throws off the chains of the world's great taskmaster and brings us back, back toward the primeval paradise, where there was nothing but joy, and sin and sorrow were unknown.

Once more, optimism is one of the supreme sedatives. There are men who worry because the sun will sometimes go out and the earth grow dead and cold like the moon, or the coal measures be exhausted, or the fertile areas of the world dry up because of the denudation of forests, but the philosophy of health is that the best things have not happened; that man's history has only just begun; that, on the whole, there has been steady progress; that in virtue, comfort, knowledge, arts, religion and nearly if not quite all the essentials of the further development of man, faith in human nature and belief in a future better than the present is the conclusion of every philosophy of development and evolution. It is our good fortune to live in a day of the evolution of evolution, and this is giving a new meaning to the very word progress and makes us feel that the world is rational and beneficent to the core and that where conscious purpose and effort fail we sink back into everlasting arms. This is a sanifying point of view authorized now by both science and religion and is a good psychic state to sleep on or in which to enter the great rest.—Ainslee's Magazine.

Too Much Fault Finding.

Henry Crabb Robinson, the kindly and philosophic barrister, once gave an effectual rebuke to the habit of fault finding. It was, as we read in his diary, during a visit to Paris.

He had spent the day in sightseeing with a London acquaintance, who said to him at parting, "I will call for you tomorrow."

"I will thank you not to call," replied Robinson. "I would rather not see anything else with you, and I will tell you frankly why. I came to Paris to enjoy myself, and that enjoyment needs the accompaniment of sympathy with others. Now, you dislike everything and find fault with everything. You see nothing which you do not find inferior to what you have seen before. This may be all very true, but it makes me uncomfortable. So I shall be glad to see you in London, but no more in Paris."

A Judge of Sermons.

A clergyman in Scotland invited Bishop Selwyn to preach in his church. As usual his lordship gave an impressive and beautiful sermon, which at the same time was perfectly plain and simple. The rector was delighted and said as much on meeting one of the most regular members of his congregation.

"Well, sir, I don't think so much of it," rejoined the man. "It was so simple any child could have understood it. For my part, I like a sermon which confuses your head for a week. I don't know any which beats yours for that, sir."—London Tit-Bits.

A Safe Refuge.

A certain wild beast tamer had been on bad terms for some time with one of his neighbors, and the other day, as the result of a violent quarrel, the latter, with a friend, attacked the former just before he was timed to give his performance.

The tamer, unwilling to make a scene, took refuge in the lion's den.

Judge of the amusement of the spectators when they beheld the two men standing in front of the cage and shouting through the bars at regular intervals:

"Come out of that, you big coward! Come out of that!"—Chums.

A Careless Boy.

Mrs. Boggs—Little Johnny has lost his knife, and I was thinking—

Mr. Boggs—What? Has that boy lost another knife? It's outrageous! Here I am slaving myself to death to support my family and everything going to rack and ruin. That was a good knife, and it's a shame.

Mrs. Boggs—I was thinking, my dear, that as I have found six or eight knives that you have lost you might give him one of them.

An important meeting of the wine men and grape growers of Healdsburg was held last Saturday, says the Press Democrat, the main business of which was to talk over the price to be paid for grapes. It was agreed by the California Wine Association that it would pay $22 50 per ton for grapes, and further, that it would meet any advance in price made by a private concern crushing 500 tons of grapes or over. It is thought that the price of grapes will go as high as $25 per ton.

Southern Minnesota's present prosperity is said to be due to the many creameries, which have made it the "butter state" of the Union

Love is sometimes a hard taskmaster. He drives women to tasks beyond their strength and lays heavy burdens on their shoulders. Love of husband, love of family, forces many a woman day by day to labor for the home when aching back and throbbing head make her utterly unfit for household duties.

Weak, nervous women who suffer from headache, backache, bearing-down pains and other consequences of womanly disease, can be completely cured by the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It establishes regularity, dries weakening drains, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness.

"About two years ago I was taken sick and it seemed as if I had no nerves at all," writes Mrs. P. Woodbeck, of Delray, Mich. "Could not work an hour in the day without being tired out. I doctored first with one physician, then with another, but did not receive any benefit. One would say one thing and the next something else. I had almost given up when I thought your medicine might help me, so I wrote to you asking what to do. You advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I did so and could see a difference right away. I only took four bottles in all and felt better than I had in a long time. Can work all day now and not feel tired as I would in an hour before taking your treatment. I think it is the only medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure dizziness and sick headache.

UNIVERSITY NEWS.

The discoveries made in Egypt during three years of excavation by the Hearst Expedition of the University of California will be described by Dr. George A. Reisner in five lectures at the University during this month. This expedition, equipped and maintained by the generosity of Mrs. Hearst, has excavated palaces, temples, villages, cemeteries and rock-cut tombs at Der-el-Ballas, Naga-ed-Der, El Ahaiwah and other historic spots in Egypt.

The rich collections gathered for the University by Dr. Reisner represent forty centuries of Egyptian life. Among the discoveries made were bodies of the prehistoric people who dwelt in Egypt 6000 years ago, naturally mummified by the soil in which they were interred. In the collection are gold, jewelry, household utensils, pottery, weapons, paintings, sculptures, and funerary objects representing all periods of Egyptian history from prehistoric times down to the days of the Ptolomies. Dr. Reisner has come from Egypt especially in order to deliver these lectures. They will be free to the public. They will be copiously illustrated with slides made from photographs taken by the University expedition. A series of volumes will be printed giving an account of the University's Egyptian researches.

Plans are being completed for the monumental stone bridge and gateway for whose erection at the Telegraph avenue entrance to the University grounds Mrs. Sather has given $10,000.

The Junior and Senior students in the Engineering College have formed an association for the discussion of technical problems.

Football practice has begun. The coaches—both old university players—are ex Captain James R. Whipple and ex-Captain Lloyd A. Womble. Most of last year's 'varsity and second eleven players have returned, and Captain Albertson has good freshman material to draw upon.

POLITICAL POINTS.

Judges Samuel K. Dougherty and Albert G. Burnett have always maintained the dignity and high standing of Sonoma county's Superior Court. Both have attained to an eminent degree of legal learning by years of experience and hard study and their decisions rank high in the legal annals of the State. It would be the nature of an experiment to exchange our judges at this time for new and inexperienced men. Sonoma county requires and deserves the very best of talent on the bench. We have got it and no changes are required. Let us re elect our judges.—Bodega Weekly Occidental.

F. A. Kruse, Democratic nominee for County Treasurer, was in Sonoma Wednesday making the acquaintance of our people. During his brief stay he made many friends. Mr. Kruse is a quiet, unaffected gentleman—one of those kind of men who make friends apparently without an effort. He is an expert accountant, having been Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express agent for fifteen years, and stands high in the esteem of the big express company. He is one of Healdsburg's most progressive citizens. Mr. Kruse is the son of the late James Kruse, a pioneer merchant, who came to Sonoma county in 1852 and engaged in business in Windsor and Mark West. He was born in the former place in 1866. Mr. Kruse will poll a big vote in Sonoma valley.

Charles A. Pool, Democratic nominee for County Auditor, attended the Democratic meeting in this place Wednesday evening and before leaving town paid this office a friendly call. Mr. Pool is among the foremost educators of this county and is President of the County Board of Education. He has taught school in Santa Rosa and other places for twelve yeare and has always been popular with both parents and teachers. He is in every way qualified for the position he seeks, and if elected will make a competent and painstaking official. Mr. Pool was born and raised in Windsor in this county, and althou h at the present time a resident of Santa Rosa, the delegation to the convention from his native town brought him forward for the office and cast a solid vote for him.

Miss Minnie Coulter, regular Democratic nominee for County Superintendent of Schools, was in town Wednesday. Miss Coulter has many friends, both Republican and Democratic, in Sonoma valley, who are confident of her re-election to the office of Superintendent of Schools of this county, and it is with pride they point to the fact that she has never once shirked her duty in any way. Miss Coulter has visited every school in this county the past year, and there are more school districts in this county than any other in the State. So pleased with her work is State Superintendent Kirk that he will write any one in regard to it. The above speaks for itself.

Newton V. V. Smyth, the Republican nominee for County Surveyor, publishes his political card in another column of this paper. Mr. Smyth held the office for four years and has proven to be one of the most competent civil engineers ever elected to the office by the people of Sonoma county.

MR. EDITOR—Allow me to speak a few words in favor of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I suffered for three years with the bronchitis and could not sleep at nights. ## EL VERANO HAPPENINGS

Thomas Mullen was a Monday visitor to Santa Rosa.

Frank Ferrogaro is tending bar for E. P. Lounibos during the latter's absence.

W. M. Mullen of the Union Iron Works and Steve Gionetto of San Francisco were visitors at El Verano Sunday.

Kenneth Weaver and F. A. Riser spent Sunday at Schellville fishing. They had very poor luck and, it is reported, only caught two suckers.

A. W. Weaver and E. P. Lounibos left for Shasta county last Sunday, where they will spend a week looking after the mine owned by the former.

A large crowd from this place took in the grand ball at Sonoma last Saturday night. They pronounced it a grand affair and all had a good old time.

Mike Mullen, the young and accommodating clerk of the El Verano store, left Tuesday for Harbin Springs, where he will spend a few weeks. He was accompanied by Philip Warden of San Francisco.

Misses Edna and Corneal Farrell visited at the Kearney residence Sunday. These two bright young ladies are billed to appear in a comic play to be presented in the near future at Sonoma.

It is reported that Felici Clerici struck hot water in his new well, 90 degrees temperature, and rumor has it that Felici will build a bath house, to be known as the Felici & Molley Hot Springs, and the place is now valued at $15,000.

A large crowd of Democrats attended the mass meeting at Sonoma Wednesday evening. The young nominee for Congress made quite an impression on our people. But Frank P. Grace seems to be the favorite and it goes without saying that he will be elected, as his name is heard wherever you go, and he is good for a few more terms.

The much talked-of boxing bout was declared off Thursday night. The would be Sonoma scrapper was all wind and his big bluff didn't work with the El Veranoite. It is now said that a young man in San Francisco, formerly of Sonoma, will take the place of the would-be Sonoma cyclone. The bout will take place a week from Saturday night, either in Sonoma or El Verano, and everybody is invited to attend.

YOU GUESS.

The Price for Grapes

During the past two days grape growers in the vicinity of Healdsburg have been offered from $23 to $24 per ton for grapes without regard to their percentage of sugar. Growers are not anxious to sell at these figures, being satisfied that $25 and perhaps better per ton can be obtained. With wine selling at 28 cents a gallon the wine men can well afford to pay $25 for grapes the Sotoyome Sun says.

THE CLEWE WILL FILED

AN OLOGRAPHIC WILL

Widow Bequeathed all the Property, with the Proviso That She Provide for the Children

The olographic will of J. F. Clewe, who died in Sonoma on the 14th of May, was filed for probate last Saturday, as was the petition of Mrs. Marie Clewe for letters testamentary thereon. Mr. Clewe left his property entirely to his wife and his will appoints her executrix of the estate, to serve without bonds and to convey the estate without order of court.

In the original will Mr. Clewe left to Miss Adelhaid Reinsch the sum of $100, but in the codicil he revoked this bequest because she had been provided for by her mother's estate. Mr. Clewe states that he omits making provisions for his children because he prefers to leave them entirely to the care of their mother, trusting to her love to make suitable provision for them. C. S. Harris is subscribing witness to the will and G. D. Rich and William Clewe attach their names as witnesses to the codicil.

The property disposed of was as follows: House and lot in Sonoma valued at $10,000; real estate in Petaluma, $400; real estate in San Francisco, $500; one half interest in Clewe Dubring ranch, near Sonoma, valued at about $5000; merchandise in store at Sonoma, $13,000, and household furnishings, $2000.

Miss Ethel Potter, for greater convenience in attending the High School, remains through the week at the home of her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cutter, at Vineburg.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Tenney, who purchased Dr. Walliser's old home, corner Power street and Broadway, have attracted widespread notice with their extensive preparations for developing the fine poultry business on their farm. They have already invested $1000 in this portion of their enterprise.

Child Bitten by a Dog

Zoe Amelia, the two year old baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bates, was badly bitten Wednesday by a pet dog while at play in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Harris. The dog, a pet of the family, had never been known before to growl or snap at the children. However, it seemed to resent the appearance of a strange child, and after watching the little girl for some time he suddenly ran after her, knocking her down and biting her on the lip and forehead. Her screams quickly brought help. After carrying the little one into the house Dr. Rich was called. He examined the injury and pronounced the wounds not dangerous. The animal was killed.

"A bunch appeared on the left side of my neck. It caused great pain, was lanced, and became a running sore. I went into a general decline. ## STABBING AFFRAY

A DESPERATE DEED

Louis Fouts Slashes Nick Carillo With a Pocket Knife, Inflicting Serious Wounds

On Sunday evening last Louis Fouts and Nick Carillo engaged in an altercation on the street in front of the Louvre saloon. During the mix-up Fouts drew a pocket knife and slashed Carrillo across the cheek and throat, making two ugly and dangerous wounds from which the blood poured in streams.

Eye-witnesses to the affray say that Fouts chellenged Carillo to a fist fight and the challenge was accepted. Walking out of the saloon into the middle of the street the combatants commenced to pummel each other. Fouts was knocked down several times, and seeing that he was being worsted he drew the knife and slashed Carillo as described above.

Upon discovering that he was cut Carillo jumped for Fouts and gave him a terrible beating. Fouts then ran away.

The wounded man had his wounds attended to by Dr. Rich. It required six stitches to sew up the gaping wound in the neck, which reached from the right ear to the chin. The cut on the cheek required four stitches. Carilio had a very close call, as the knife barely missed the jugular vein.

Constable Ohm, having been notified of the cutting, came up from his home at Schellville the following day and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Fouts, charging him with assault to murder. The warrant was issued by Justice of the Peace Small and placed in the officer's hands, who subsequently arrested Fouts and locked him up. Upon being taken before Judge Small in the afternoon, he was committed to the County Jail in default of $500 bail to answer to the charge, which is a most serious one.

Fouts is now in the County Jail at Santa Rosa awaiting his preliminary examination, which cannot be held until Carillo's wounds have sufficiently healed to allow him to appear against the prisoner.

A BOLD FORGER

Passes a Worthless Check on a Business Man

On Tuesday evening last two strangers made their appearance in town, making the rounds of the saloons. They spent money freely and in several places attempted to cash a check for $125, payable to bearer and signed by Carrol Cook, Superior Judge of San Francisco and amateur rancher of Glen Ellen.

During their rounds the men happened into the Louvre saloon, and after having several rounds of drinks, presented the $125 check to the proprietor, Fred Goess, in payment for the same, stating that they had no ready money. Upon the representation of the men that the check was genuine, Mr. Goess finally consented to take it as collateral for the loan of $3 cash and $2.75 due on the drinks. The men promised to call around the next morning and have the check cashed up by the Sonoma Valley Bank, upon which it was drawn.

The next morning loomed up all right but the men were non est Suspecting that something was wrong, Mr. Goess repaired to the Sonoma Valley Bank as soon as it opened its doors and presented the check to Cashier Burris for payment. After looking at the check, Cashier Burris sententiously remarked: "No good." It was then that Goess realized for the first time that he had been handed out a gold brick. The man who passed the spurious paper gave the name of Walker, which is probably a fictitious one.

Officer Ohm was notified and is now hot on the trail of the bold forger, who was last seen at Reclamation, about ten miles south of this place.

CAMPAIGN OPENS UP

HON. T. L. BELL SPEAKS

The Democratic Candidate for Congress Addresses People of Sonoma—Many Ladies Present

The Democrats opened the campaign in this place with an enthusiastic meeting in Union Hall last Wednesday evening.

The meeting was called to order by Hon. Robert Howe, who, after a neat speech, presented Fred T. Duhring, nominee for State Senator, to the audience.

Mr. Duhring said he needed no introduction, as he was personally acquainted with every man, woman and child in the audience. The speaker spoke briefly, stating that he was a candidate for State Senator and if elected would serve the people faithfully and well. It was not his intention to make a speech at this time but he would be heard later on. He was well received and made a favorable impression for a new campaigner.

Hon. Theodore L. Bell of Napa, candidate for Congress, for whom the meeting had been arranged, was then introduced to the people of Sonoma by Chairman Howe. Mr. Bell was warmly and enthusiastically received. His speech, which was of an hour's duration, was listened to with marked attention and not for one moment did he weary his hearers, who were about equally divided between the two parties.

Among other things, the speaker promised if elected to look after and work for the agricultural interests of California. He also pointed to the fact that sooner or later the country would face a grave crisis—that of a conflict between the trusts and organized labor. That he favored arbitration, to be made compulsory by legislation, to settle all differences between capital and labor, and pledged himself if sent to Congress to work and vote for such a measure.

Mr. Bell, who has been the District Attorney of Napa county for eight years, is only 30 years old. He is a man of pleasing personality, a forcible and entertaining speaker, and will no doubt prove a foeman worthy of Frank Coombs, whose seat in Congress he is aspiring to.

After Mr. Bell had concluded his speech a number of county candidates who occupied seats upon the platform were introduced to the audience. Among these were Emmet Seawell and Clarence Lea, the nominees for Superior Judges; Frank P. Grace, the nominee for Sheriff; Fred A. Kruse, candidate for Treasurer; Charles A. Pool, nominee for Auditor, and Oscar K. Wescoatt, candidate for County Surveyor.

The meeting then adjourned with three cheers for the Democratic ticket.

The District Fair for the Fourth Agricultural District, comprising the counties of Sonoma and Marin, will be held at Santa Rosa, commencing Monday, September 29, and continuing six days. The list of premiums is larger than usual and the exhibition will eclipse all former ones.

The Sonoma County Horticultural Society, the different county Boards of Trade, Granges, stockmen and others have been invited to make displays, and applications for space in the pavilion and entries should be made at once.

Suitable accommodations for the stock and poultry exhibits will be provided, and low railroad rates given to exhibitors and visitors.

C. O. Dunbar will publish the official fair programme and the Santa Rosa Band has been engaged to furnish the muse. Other information is contained in the ad elsewhere in this paper.

Glen Ellen News Items

Will Ashe is attending High School at Sonoma.

W. B. Gilbert of San Francisco is registered at the Mervyn.

Mrs. M. A. Wyman of Santa Rosa is registered at the Mervyn.

Misses Emma Gaige and Annie Quien are attending the Santa Rosa High School.

Misses Eva and Katie Lee Ping have gone on a trip to Colusa to visit their uncle.

C. O. Duubar, business manager of the Press Democrat, and also a nominee for the Assembly on the Democratic ticket, visited Glen last Saturday.

Alex Ross, the landlord of the Mervyn, has been confined to his room by sickness and is not able to be around yet.

Mr. T. H. Cruff and his daughter, Miss May, from East Oakland, have been rusticating at the Mervyn the past week. They are prominent Christian Endeavor workers and the young lady is a fine musician.

Mrs. Skahan is having an addition of several sleeping rooms attached to her store. Mr. Chauvet is attending to it for her. She is very successful in her business and is a formidable rival to the old time merchants here. She is one of the New Women of the Twentieth Century.

I was shaking hands with my old friend George Hardman, who is home after a six months' sojourn in the fruit belt of Solano county. George thinks no place comes up to Glen Ellen for downright enjoyment and happiness, fine scenery and pure air. Right, George; I am with you there. I am proud of my birthplace.

W. B. Gilbert of San Francisco, one of the promoters of the Glen Ellen Coal Company, has been spending several days here for the purpose of investigating the quality and quantity of the clay in this locality for establishing a brick and terra cotta plant. He is perfectly satisfied with everything and is now going ahead with it, and things will soon be booming. He is a first-class business man, keen and energetic, social, affable, and under his able management things will develop rapidly.

Sonoma county is noted for its beautiful springs of clear, sparkling water, and Glen Ellen is particularly blessed that way. Springs are numerous on every hillside and in every nook and corner of the valley. But for some unaccountable reason there has been a great scarcity of water for household purposes. There have been numerous complaints about the low pressure in the pipes of the Chauvet water works. It seems impossible to get a bath and families are lucky who get water enough to wash dishes. Mr. Chauvet had better get a move on and give us water enough to keep clean, for "cleanliness is next to godliness."

TAX RATE THIS YEAR

Supervisors Fix the Levy at $1.60 for State and County Purposes

The tax rate for Sonoma county this year will be $1.60 on the $100 of valuation.

At a meeting of the Supervisors held Monday the following levy was made:

| | |
|---|---|
| State rate | 38.2 |
| Bond fund | 02 |
| Indigent fund | 11 |
| General fund | 40 |
| School fund | 23.8 |
| Road fund | 36 |
| Total | $1.60 |

The estimates furnished of the amount to be raised for special school taxes were presented to the Board together with figures showing the amount of the assessed valuation of the property in the districts. Upon this data the Board fixed the special school tax levy as follows:

Court House school district, bond fund, .19; special, .20; Cloverdale Union High School, special, .16; Sonoma Valley Union High School, .12; Todd school district, special, .17; Grant, .20; Littons, .12; Sebastopol, .18; Forestville, .07.

A resolution was passed apportioning the railroad assessment to the various cities and districts in the county according to the number of miles of railroad therein. The assessment was levied by the State Board of Equalization and is as follows:

The San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad in this county is valued at $12,083.13 per mile, total, $1,329,386; the Southern Pacific railroad is valued at $15,000 per mile, total, $457,800; the North Pacific Coast railroad is valued at $7,100.58 per mile, total, $184,615; the Gaulala railroad is valued at $3,076.92 per mile, total, $24,615. A comparison of this year's railroad assessment figures with those of last year shows that the assessment value of the Southern Pacific railroad is about $5,000 more per mile than it was last year.

The Daily Call and Index-Tribune $7 per year.

MAXIMS OF A WITTY ABBE.

A Notable Eighteenth Century Figure In French Society.

Some of the maxims and anecdotes of Nicholas de Chamfort, the witty abbe, who during the latter half of the eighteenth century was such a notable figure in French society, have been translated by Mr. W. G. Hutchison and published by a London firm. Here are some samples of the abbe's wit as rendered by the translator:

"Living is a disease from the pains of which sleep eases us every sixteen hours. Sleep is but a palliative; death alone is the cure."

"The worst wasted of all days is that in which one has not laughed."

"'Tis not generally known how much wit a man requires to avoid being ridiculous."

"The best philosophical attitude to adopt toward the world is a union of the sarcasm of gayety with the indulgence of contempt."

"Society would be a charming affair if we were only interested in one another."

"There is no history worthy of attention save that of free nations. The history of nations under the sway of despotism is no more than a collection of anecdotes."

Some of his anecdotes are good.

Mme. de Talmont, seeing M. de Kichelieu neglecting her to pay attentions to Mme. de Brionne, a very beautiful woman, but said to be rather stupid, remarked to him, "You are not blind, marshal, but I cannot help thinking you a little deaf."

Mlle. Duthe having lost a lover and the affair causing some talk, a man who called to see her found her playing the harp and said with surprise: "Good heavens! I was expecting to find you desolated with grief." "Ah," she exclaimed in a pathetic tone, "you ought to have seen me yesterday!"

A woman was at a performance of the tragedy of "Merope" and did not weep. Surprise was expressed. "I could cry my eyes out," she said, "but I have to go out to supper tonight."

What Causes Fogs.

Fogs are, generally speaking, caused by the precipitation of the moisture of the atmosphere. They are formed when a warm stratum of atmosphere comes in contact with a cold stratum or with a portion of the earth's surface, as a hill, by which it is cooled so that it can no longer hold as much moisture in solution as before. This causes the frequent fogs in mountain regions. When a cold stratum of air comes over a moist, warm part of the earth's surface, a fog is also formed. This is the cause of the mists that appear over lakes, rivers and marshes in the evening, since the water is then warmer than the atmosphere above it. The blackness and density of London fogs are caused by the simple fact that the mist formed in the upper air mingles with the ascending clouds of smoke from hundreds of thousands of chimneys and, descending, brings the smoke with it and settles like a pall above the buildings and in the streets of the city.

A Boy Who Did His Duty.

A gentleman went into a fancy shop one day to buy something. It was early, and the shopkeeper's little boy and he were alone in the house. The shopkeeper had to go upstairs to get his cash box in order to procure some change, but before doing so he went into the little room next to the shop and whispered to the boy:

"Watch the gentleman that he doesn't steal anything," and, bringing him out, sat him on the counter.

As soon as the shopkeeper returned the child sang out: "Pa, he didn't steal anything. I watched him."—London Tit-Bits.

A Simple Change.

The little daughter of the house watched the minister who was making a visit very closely and finally sat down beside him and began to draw on her slate.

"What are you doing?" asked the clergyman.

"I'm making your picture," said the child.

The minister sat very still, and the child worked away earnestly. Then she stopped and compared her work with the original and shook her head.

"I don't like it much," she said. "'Tain't a great deal like you. I think I'll put a tail to it and call it a dog."

A Somewhat Clever Rat.

The Pioneer tells a story of a rat which on one occasion was caught alive on a ship and thrown overboard. A sea gull was floating by the side of the ship. Immediately there ensued a battle royal, and the rat strangled the sea gull to death. He then sat upon the carcass of the sea gull, unfurled its left wing to catch the wind and, working the right wing as an oar, set sail for the shore!

A Certain Cure for Dysentery and Diarrhoea

"Some years ago I was one of a party that intended making a long bicycle trip," says F. L. Taylor of New Albany, Bradford county, Pa. "I was taken suddenly with diarrhoea, and was about to give up the trip, when Editor Ward of the Laceyville Messenger suggested that I take a dose of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I purchased a bottle and took two doses, one before starting and one on the route. I made the trip successfully and never felt any ill effect. Again last summer I was almost completely run down with an attack of dysentery. I bought a bottle of the same remedy and this time one dose cured me." Sold by F. Dubring.

ZAP'S SLOW FEVER.

"Sunday Morning" Simpson and How He Got His Nickname.

Few old New England towns are without their traditions of eccentric characters, whose renown often remains locally fresh for generations. One such oddity was Zaptieh Simpson, of whom it used to be said even before he earned his nickname that if Zap Simpson liked to do anything it was nothing, and if he had any strong feelings about anything it was that he strongly objected to having his feelings stirred up.

When Zaptieh was in the prime of life he had a fever—a slow fever. It was so very slow that at last the old family physician became skeptical and made up his mind that there had long ceased to be anything the matter with his patient except that he was too lazy to admit he was well.

"I call you well now," said Dr. Pedbury, "but I'll let you laze in bed three more days if you want to. This is Wednesday. I give you fair warning, Zaptieh, you'll be downstairs on the sofa Sunday morning and Sarah Maria off to church the first time in nine weeks. On Sunday morning, sir!"

The next night the house caught fire, and it took an hour's hard fighting, with the help of half the village, to extinguish the flames. At the first alarm Zaptieh's daughter Sally ran to his room to help him dress and escape from the burning house, of which the ell where he lay had not yet caught, but was obviously endangered. He refused to budge.

"No, Sally," he drawled, with gentle decision; "I'm goin' to stay put right here. Your ma'll see to the fire, and I'm a man that don't believe in anticipatin' things. You go help your ma if you feel anyways narvis; but this is only Thursday night, and here I stay till Sunday mornin'."

There he did stay, and on the next Sunday morning he duly came downstairs and watched the churchgoers passing the window. But he seemed to have mislaid his Christian name upstairs, and he never recovered it, for he was known as "Sunday Morning" Simpson ever after.—Youth's Companion.

Why He Was Posted.

"My wife," said the man from Chicago proudly, "has one of the finest minds I have ever met."

"Indeed she has," agreed the stranger from Dakota, who had just been introduced into the club.

The Chicago man looked up sharply. There was an authoritative ring that he did not like in the stranger's voice.

"Nevertheless I must admit that she has her faults," he continued after a pause.

"Yes, indeed she has," the stranger again chimed in.

The Chicago man jumped to his feet. "See here, my friend," he exclaimed, "I should like to know by what authority you agree with me so definitely about my wife?"

"The best in the world," said the stranger simply. "I used to be married to her myself, you know."—New York Tribune.

Could Not Speak English.

One of the most common faults among those who speak incorrectly is the misuse of English prepositions. "Different from" becomes "different to" in the popular speech of England and too often "different than" in America. The New York Times mentions a queer juggling of prepositions, the achievement of two small boys.

"William," asked the teacher, "why were you absent from school this morning?"

"Oh, some un stole me coat on me."

"What's that? Stole your coat on you?"

"Aw, he can't talk English," said William's brother James. "I means some un stole his coat off 'im."

Going Upstairs.

The wrong way to go upstairs, according to a physical culture teacher, is to lean over, contract the chest, hoop the shoulders and bend the whole body forward from the waist. The person who goes upstairs in this way will be exhausted at the top of even a short flight. Yet stair climbing properly done is considered a good exercise. The head should be erect, the chest expanded, the shoulders back, with no bend whatever of the body at the waist. With this poise put the whole weight on the ball of the foot and do not touch the step with the heel and note the springiness felt at every footfall.

Wine Tasters.

Professional wine tasters never swallow the wine they taste. They merely hold a sip of the beverage in the mouth for a few moments and breathe through the nostrils. The palate announces whether the wine is smooth or rough, and the sense of smell takes note of the aroma.
